SCOPE: This seminar examines a variety of subjects that are near and dear to a surveyor's heart and pocket book. They will examine such areas as boundaries, easements, negligence, malpractice, and numerous other areas in which surveyor's normally practice.

The instructors will examine appellate decisions in the specific state as well as decisions from other jurisdictions which they feel may be important. Using a dialog of a judge and a surveyor/expert the two instructors will bring to the audience nearly 90 years of combined experience. The format for the day is a dialectic between the instructors, with participation from those attending.
