SCOPE: This seminar will examine and discuss two contemporary Supreme Court Justices; Just Thomas Cooley of Michigan and Justice Lumpkin of Georgia. Separated by hundreds of miles, these two justices rendered nearly identical decisions relative to surveying and land boundaries. Numerous decisions rendered by these two justices will be discussed and the importance of these decisions to the surveyor of today will be examined.

Today's surveyor will have an opportunity to examine and to discuss numerous decisions made by these two individuals.

This seminar attendee will be furnished with numerous decisions for discussion and will be given an opportunity to readily participate in the class.
